

This website was developed to present the capstone project titled “Social Media as a Tool for Marketing in Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR)”. The purpose of the website is to demonstrate how organizations use social media platforms such as Facebook, Instagram, LinkedIn, YouTube, and X (Twitter) to communicate CSR initiatives, improve public awareness, strengthen brand reputation, and engage with communities. The website follows a professional design with consistent colours, typography, navigation, header, and footer across all pages. The design applies the principles of balance, contrast, emphasis, movement, rhythm, hierarchy, white space, and unity to provide an attractive and user-friendly experience. The website contains five main pages: Home, About, Research, Multimedia, and Contact. The Multimedia section includes posters, images, videos, audio, and presentation files related to the project. The Research page presents objectives, findings, statistics, and platform comparisons, while the Contact page allows visitors to share feedback. Overall, the website serves as a central platform for presenting all multimedia deliverables and research content in a professional, organized, and accessible manner.
